

Some tables were created for the convenience of having foreign keys to be able to show relationships in the diagrams. Those are the ones marked in red. Ignore them since they are removed in Edited Code along with foreign keys.

“DisplayElements” table is excluded from this diagram but any column Element INT would link to that table